

Dear Sir/Madam:

I wish to express my concern that increasingly, the media, a necessary ingredient for a vibrant democracy, is slowly losing diversity as it becomes the property of a few large companies. I think that radio and the behemoth Clear Channel provide a vivid example of what can happen when you relax rules that govern ownership. Please do not repeat this mistake. I urge you to:

- Keep the ban on newspaper ownership of TV or radio stations in the same city.

- Do not raise the cap to 45% of the national audience for networks!

- Do not increase the number of stations a network can own in a given city/market.

- Do not ease or lift the cap on TV/radio cross-ownership

The fact that liberals and conservatives are uniting on this issue tells me that it has "traction." America needs a variety of voices, not just two or three.
Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Henry McEntee
